FRIDAY MORNING, SEPT. 4, 1863.

Old Claims against the State.

The Statesman gives a strange history of an old demand which has lately been revived against the State by Judge Pratt, and stands now as a judgment for about $10,000, recovered in the Circuit Court in Clackamas county, under an act passed at the last session of the Legislature, authorizing suits to be brought upon claims against the Territorial or State Government, and requiring the courts to investigate and decide them.

According to the Statesman, "one Ewing Young came to this country many years ago and settled in what is now Yamhill county, managed to get together quite a band of cattle and horses, and soon after, died. His estate was administered upon under the laws of the old Provisional Government, and upon final settlement, a balance of three or four thousand dollars was found to remain after paying all his indebtedness. He had no heirs in this country, nor could any be found any where. Accordingly, the money was paid into the treasury of the old Government, and, as nearly as we can ascertain, was about the only money ever deposited therein, the treasury being little more than a nominal institution. The money in the treasury was afterward applied to the building of a jail at Oregon City, but upon whose authority is probably not now known. The institution shortly afterward was burned down, which gave rise to the necessity of building the present 'paying institution' at Portland.

"In 1853, Pratt, being a man of 'thrift' and enterprise, and having learned the foregoing facts, conceived the magnificent project of raising the aforesaid sum, with interest, out of the Territorial treasury and depositing it comfortably with his own 'little means.' Accordingly, he went to California, caught a live half-breed Indian and had him christened 'Joaquin Young,' for the purpose of having a claimant to the effects of Ewing Young's estate. The next winter he succeeded, through some of his friends, in connecting a bill authorizing him to sue the Territory for said newly-named half breed with the proposition to remove the capital from Salem to Corvallis, and so it got through. The next summer the benevolent Pratt, who only wanted to 'obtain justice' for the 'poor Indian' and 'be vindicated,' brought his suit and produced in court the depositions of sundry other half breeds or other respectable persons, said by him to be living in California and altogether unknown in Oregon, which, as one of the judges who sat on trial of the cause said, as if in derision, 'made out his case exactly in accordance with the rules of evidence laid down by Mr. Greenleaf,' and, of course, obtained a judgment. The Legislature of 1854 being in session at that time, repealed the act of 1853 and forbid the payment of the judgment, and so the matter remained until the summer of 1862, when the sagacious Pratt, seeing that most of the members were new men and most likely unacquainted with the history of the claim, wrote letters to nearly every one of them, asking the passage of some act which would enable him to collect his 'old unpaid judgment with interest.' The act was passed, and he is now in a fair way to receive some $8,000 or $10,000. His 'Joaquin Young' has not been heard of since he first commenced suit. Pratt probably took off his fine clothes and let him go back among his friends, the Diggers.

"Two or three other old claims which had been for years before the Legislature and repeatedly rejected as swindles, have also been prosecuted to judgments against the State under the law of last session, and others innumerable will follow in procession of 'rag tag and bobtail,' in this free and easy method of creating a State debt. There are yet demands against the State, growing out of the Indian wars and the old Provisional Government, which are more equitable, and just as legal, as any of the above. Those claims—as any one curious enough to examine the matter may see—amount in the aggregate to the enormous sum of nearly $4,000,000. When they are presented to the courts in the proper way, they will be just as certain to be collected as were any of those to whom judgments are already awarded.

Some of the members of the Legislature understood how the matter would operate and it was explained, but to no purpose. How such an act could have passed, or have received the Executive sanction, is not apparent in good reason. The inevitable result is that the State treasury will be kept constantly barren by these coming judgments. The Secretary is forestalled by the act from referring any of them, as other classes of claims may be, to the next Legislature. Whenever the certified judgments are presented, he must draw his warrants for their payment, and if there is no money to pay, the warrants will begin to draw interest.

"The denial of the privilege to collect such old claims through the courts could not operate hardly on more than one or two cases, while the permission to sue, abandoned the State treasury almost literally to the mercy of speculators in trumped up and swindling claims."

THEN AND NOW.—In 1861, Beauregard thought it was all right to throw red hot shot into Fort Sumter, for the purpose of driving out the little band of its brave defenders. Now, when Gen. Gilmore employs a similar mode of warfare against a stronghold of rebellion, for the purpose of compelling traitors to surrender it as speedily as possible, thereby saving lives and property which are sure to be sacrificed by a long siege, the same Beauregard is full of holy wrath, and cries out against the cruel conduct of Gilmore. We hope he will continue to be mad, till Greek fire burns up his last hope of refuge, and compels him to submit to the Government, which he has so long resisted.

A CONSCRIPT'S EPISTLE TO JEFF. DAVIS.—The following quaint epistle has been furnished for publication by a member of the Mounted Rifles, who picked it up in a deserted rebel camp on the Chowan river, about thirty miles from Winton, while out on a scouting expedition last spring:

The letter was addressed in this wise:

Read, if you want to, you thieving scalp-hunter, wherever you may, and forward, post paid, to the lord high chancellor of the devil's exchequer (?) on earth, Jeff. Davis, Richmond, Va.

HEADQUARTERS "SCALP HUNTERS," }
CAMP CHOWAN, N. C., January 11. }

Excellency Davis: It is with feelings of undeveloped pleasure that an affectionate conscript intrusts this sheet of confiscated paper to the tender mercies of a Confederate States mail carrier, addressed as it shall be, to yourself, O Jeff. Red Jacket of the Gulf, and chief of the Six Nations—more or less.—He writes on the stump of a shivered monarch of the forest, with the "pine trees wailing round him," and "Endymion's planet rising on the air." To you, O Czar of all chivalry and Khan of Cotton Tartary, he appeals for the privilege of seeking, on his own book, a land less free—a home among the hyenas of the North. Will you not halt your brave columns, and stay your gorgeous career for a thin space—and while an admiring world takes a brief gaze at your glorious and God forsaken cause, pen for him the happy furlough without end? Do so, and mail it, if you please, to that city the windy, wandering Wigfall didn't winter in, called, for short, Philadelphia.

The Etesian winds sweeping down the defiles of the Old Dominion and over the swamps of Suffolk come moaning through the pines of the old State, laden with the music and sigh themselves away into sweet sounds of silence to the far-off South. Your happy conscript would go to the far away North whence the winds come and leave you to reap the whirlwind, with no one but your father, the devil, to rake and bind after you. And he's going.

It is with intense and multifariously proud satisfaction that he gazed for the last time upon our holy flag—that symbol and sign of an adored trinity—cotton, niggers, and chivalry. He still sees it in the little camp on the Chowan, tied to the peak of its palmetto pole, and floating out over our boundless Confederacy, the revived relics of ages gone, banner of our king, of few days and full of trouble. And that pole in its tapering uprightness, typifying some of the grandest beauties of our nationality; its peak pointing hopefully toward the tropical stars, and its biggest end—run into the ground. Relic and pole, good bye. 'Tis best the conscript goes; his claim to chivalry has gone before him. Behind he leaves the legitimate chivalry of this unbounded nation centered in the illegitimate son of a Kentucky horse thief.

But a few more words, illustrious President, and he is done—done gone.

Elevated by their suffering and suffrages to the highest office in the gift of a great and exceeding free people, you have held position without a change of base, or purpose of any sort, through weary months of war, and want, and woe; and though every conscript would unite with the thousands of loyal and true men in the South in a grand old grief at your downfall, so too will they sink under the calamity of an exquisite joy, when you shall have reached that eminent meridian whence all progress is perpendicular.

And now, bastard President of a political abortion, farewell.

"Scalp hunter," relic, pole and chivalrous confederates in crime, good bye. Except it be in the army of the Union, you will not again see the conscript, NORM. HARROLD, of Ashe county, N. C.

GEN. JACKSON ON SECESSION AND NULLIFICATION.—The following letter of General Jackson, written over thirty years ago, has often been referred to since the breaking out of the rebellion. We publish it as a remarkable prediction, containing Democratic doctrine of the genuine stamp. All "Democracy" which advocates the dismemberment of the United States is bogus, and should be shunned:

WASHINGTON, May 1, 1861.

My Dear Sir— * * I have had a laborious task here, but nullification is dead, and its actors and courtiers will only be remembered by the people to be execrated for their wicked design to sever and destroy the only good Government on the globe, and that prosperity and happiness we enjoy over every portion of the world. Haman's gallows ought to be the fate of all such ambitious men, who would involve the country in a civil war and all the evils in its train, that they might reign and ride on its whirlwinds and direct the storm. The free people of the United States have spoken, and consigned these wicked demagogues to their doom. Take care of your nullifiers; you have them among you; let them meet with the indignant frowns of every man who loves his country.

The Tariff, it is now known, was a mere pretext—its burden was on your coarse woolens. By the law of July, 1832, coarse woolen cloth was reduced to five per cent. for the benefit of the South. Mr. Clay's bill takes it up and classes it with woolens at fifty per cent.; and there it is to remain, and Mr. Calhoun said all the nullifiers agree to the principle. The cash duties and home valuations will be equal to fifteen per cent. more, and after the year 1842, you pay on the coarse woolens thirty-five per cent. If this is not protection I cannot understand; therefore, the Tariff was only the pretext, and disunion and a Southern Confederacy their real object. The next pretext will be the negro or slavery question.

My health is not good but improving a little. Present me kindly to your lady and family, and believe me to be your friend,
ANDREW JACKSON.

The Rev. Andrew J. Crawford.

THE RIGHT OF FREE SPEECH.—We admit that this is a sacred privilege, which is not for light reasons to be assailed or interfered with. At the same time, like every other right which is enjoyed in communities, it is only a modified and partial one. When speech becomes slander, or when it incites to or provokes treason, the law in self defense punishes the speaker. No man rightfully objects to the correct criticism of the acts of the Administration, but to counsel resistance, to encourage destructive opposition and to seek to inflame the passions and prejudices of men so as to endanger the public peace, and especially to do this while war is raging, and the government is struggling to maintain itself—all these are far beyond the right of free speech, and are only words and acts of treason, which deserve severe and appropriate punishment; nor do we believe that a true patriot will justify such words or acts, or doubt the justice or policy of the discipline which visits them with just vengeance.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to August 29th.

FORTRESS MONROE, August 28.—Major Stevenson, with 40 men of the 3d regiment of Pennsylvania Artillery, made a reconnoisance in the armed steamer Smith, up the Chickahominy, on Monday, the 24th inst. He went ten miles up the river, and destroyed a number of small boats. When about nine miles from the mouth of the river, they were fired upon by 400 of Robinson's cavalry, who were repulsed. They then destroyed the building used by Robinson as his headquarters. The expedition came back without loss after obtaining all the information that was desired.

The Savannah News of the 18th says it is estimated that the number of soldiers now in the Confederate service ready for the field is 375,000. It adds that this has hardly reached half of our fighting population.

NEW YORK, August 28.—Gold, 23½; Government stocks, steady; sixes, 81½ coupons 107.

WASHINGTON, August 28.—The Navy Department has news of the capture of the English screw steamer Cronstadt, for violating the blockade at Wilmington, by the steamer Rhode Island. She had a cargo of cotton, tobacco, and turpentine.

BALTIMORE, August 28.—The gunboat Satellite and the tug Reliance, with the crews of both vessels, were captured by the rebels on the 22d, near the mouth of the Rappahannock. The captains of both vessels are said to be killed.

NASSAU, August 18.—Quite a riot took place at Greytown, between the people and soldiers. Two or three on both sides were killed.

Several blockade runners have returned to Nassau. One from Savannah says that the old walls of that city have been demolished.

MEMPHIS, August 25.—Advices from New Orleans to the 20th has been received. The steamer Courier, with 49th Illinois regiment on board, collided with the steamer Des Arc, some ten miles below Memphis, when the former was sunk near shore. Some lives were lost—some say 40, but not believed—5,000 rations, 50,000 rounds of ammunition and all the baggage was lost.

FORTRESS MONROE, August 28.—The Memphis Tribune of the 18th says there are now vessels in Pensacola harbor, among which are war vessels and transports. The Yankees are building two enormous hospitals at the Navy Yard. All the negroes are being sent to New Orleans, to be placed in Yankee regiments.

MEMPHIS, August 25.—Information comes from Arkansas to the effect that Smith has been appointed Provisional Secretary of War, with full powers to act without waiting orders from the rebel War Department. His headquarters are at Little Rock, which is now the grand centre of Confederate military operation in the trans-Mississippi department.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, August 28.—At noon to-day a party of guerrillas attacked a party who were carrying mail from a cavalry regiment stationed at Harwood church, killing one and capturing four and the mail. They made good their escape.

Early this morning three rebel surgeons were captured on this side of the Rappahannock. They will be tried as spies.

NEW YORK, August 29.—A special Washington dispatch to the World says the rebels made a daring raid on Wednesday on the Rappahannock, capturing two gunboats of the Potomac flotilla and the revenue cutter Putnam—each boat carried one 8-inch Dahlgren gun. The mouth of the Rappahannock is blockaded, and it is not believed that the rebels will be able to get the boats out of the river, which otherwise might come up the Potomac and do much damage.

News from the Army of the Potomac says it is quite plain that Lee has no intention of crossing the Rapidan. Deserters report that he will soon fall back.

CINCINNATI, August 29.—Information from Vicksburg says that General Pemberton was killed by a Texas soldier.

At a mass meeting held at Phelan, Tenn., resolutions were passed expressing a desire to return to the Union, and repudiating the act of Secession passed in 1861.

The 14th Army Corps has been transferred by Grant to the Army of the Gulf. Preparations were making at Island No. 19 for a movement in the same direction.

FORTRESS MONROE, Aug. 28.—The tug boat Western World has just arrived from off Wilmington, says on the 25th one hour before she left the steamer Florida arrived from off Charleston, with positive news that Forts Sumter and Wagner had fallen, and are now occupied by Union troops. The stars and stripes triumphantly wave over both forts.—The Union troops are in the best spirits and certain of the speedy reduction of Fort Moultrie.

European Intelligence.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The following additional foreign news is brought by the Hibernia: The London Times, referring to Mexico, says it is useless denying that the feeling is that Napoleon has done great service both to the political and commercial world in extinguishing the Monroe doctrine and restoring intercourse with a nation with such important territory.

The Poles had defeated the Russians in two battles, and captured 200,000 rubles. The German princes were in session at Frankfort, headed by the Emperor of Austria.

The agent of the Confederate loan says the September dividend will be paid in due course.

The French government has withdrawn and revoked its confiscation measures in Mexico, also its proposition in regard to specie exports.

ANECDOTES OF GENERAL GRANT.—A gentleman of Detroit, who was an early friend of Gen. Grant, furnishes the following reminiscences of the brave General who has so inseparably linked his name with the victories of the Western armies:

General Grant is of a Methodist family of Ohio, and married the daughter of a Methodist local preacher, and the granddaughter of the pioneer of Methodism in Western Pennsylvania, of the name of Wrenshall. When not much over twelve years of age he was at school, and had as a school fellow his own first cousin, whose parents were British subjects of Canada. Young Grant was taught to forgive injuries, as a Divine precept, and to do good and not evil to others, and his father had impressed his mind with love of country and reverence for the name of Washington. The Canadian had been otherwise educated, and believed Washington a rebel. On one occasion a discussion arose between the boys as to love of country and duty to a king, when John said: "U. S. (Grant had been nicknamed U. S.,) your Washington was a rebel, and fought against his king."

Grant replied: "Jack, you must stop that, or I'll flog you; I can forgive you for abusing me, but if you abuse our Washington I'll [illegible] and fight, though you are cousin Jack, and mother may whip me for not forgiving."

The boys fought. Jack got the worst of it, but "U. S." was afraid of being whipped at home for fighting, when his father interposed and saved him, saying: "The boy who will fight for Washington will prove himself a man and a Christian, and God spares him for twenty years."

Some few years ago the boys, now men grown, met in Canada, and referred to school days. Jack said: "U. S., do you remember the licking you gave me for calling Washington a rebel?"

"Yes, I do; and Jack, I'll do it again under like provocation; Washington is my idol, and to me it is more insulting to speak disrespectfully of Washington or my country than to denounce myself. Mother's maxim does very well in private quarrels, but it don't apply where one's country is denounced, or its gods. Washington is first in the American pantheon, and I couldn't rest easy if I permitted abuse of his name."

Such was and is "Unconditional Surrender Grant."

"FIRING THE SOUTHERN HEART."—General Gilmore at Charleston appears to be "firing the Southern heart" to some purpose. He is stirring up the South Carolinians by dropping Greek fire into the heart of their commercial metropolis. The South Carolina fire-eaters have met a fire they cannot eat. Fierce as they are, it is beyond their powers of digestion. They are ordinary salamanders, but it takes the extraordinary kind to chew up shells filled with such a "villainous compound" as those contained which Gilmore tossed into the streets of Charleston. The best of rebel rattlesnakes have been effectually stirred up.—Sac. Union.

Vinton, Iowa, June 9, 1858.

Messrs. A. L. Scovill & Co.—I believe your BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA is found to be the most popular remedy for pain of every description ever offered to the public. All other houses that take goods on storage are wooden buildings and in exposed parts of the town, liable to the risk of fire. The subscriber assures his patrons that his charges are but $1 50 per ton per month storage and although storage in wooden buildings is $1 00 per ton, yet the public cannot fail to perceive the advantages the subscriber possesses over other warehouses of this place.

HALL'S BALSAM, and repay, a thousand times the cost, by having it once in time of need, to give relief to the struggling child? Then why delay in procuring a remedy for such a sudden disease, which is CARRYING OFF THOUSANDS OF OUR CHILDREN EVERY YEAR?

EVERY FAMILY should keep this medicine constantly on hand, for old and young should use it for all affections of the throat and lungs.

In Every Age of the World. the professions have been slow to admit the value of new discoveries, or the expediency of adopting them in practice. It is not to the legal profession that we look for reforms in jurisprudence, neither do we find the advocates of medical reform among physicians. Each deprecates whatever is found to innovate upon received opinions and established usage. Hence the opposition which medical men too often exhibit to the use of private remedies, whatever their acknowledged value, or great efficiency in the cure of disease. No medicine has ever done more for the relief of human suffering than DR. OSGOOD'S INDIA CHOLAGOGUE. The certainty with which it cures Fever and Ague, and eradicates bile from the system is acknowledged by all. Do you prefer a speedy and effectual cure to a regular and scientific run of disease? Try the Cholagogue, and the object is accomplished. Then tell your suffering neighbor what it has done for you, that it may do the same for him.

The Theory of Slavery

The following extract from the Cincinnati Enquirer, Vallandigham's organ, proclaims to the world the noble maxim that "might makes right," that Providence has ordained that the weak shall submit to oppression by the strong—a sentiment which the accursed institution of negro slavery has tended to promulgate and strengthen in the minds of those who have unfortunately experienced its baneful influence. The above named chief exponent of Ohio Copperheadism says:

"The protection of WHITE MEN against slavery does not practically consist in principle but in facts. They will not, like negroes, consent to be reduced to a state of bondage. If we had among us a race of men of our own color with the spirit to submit, capable of labor, but without ambition or enterprise, humble, docile, and [illegible], there should be found no principle sufficiently potent to stand in the way of their enslavement. We should have our theories upon the subject as rational as those that are founded upon the misbehavior of Ham and the maudlin morality of his exemplary parent. But the Europeo American will not be enslaved any more than the native American. He would kick against his bonds, become turbulent, incendiary and desperate. He would rise in force upon his master or overcome him by his superior intelligence. He would refuse to be coerced—would combine for rebellion."

Must it be said that in the nineteenth century, so detestable and outrageous a doctrine should be upheld and circulated among a people sufficiently civilized to know and understand that all men are, by the laws of Nature, born free and equal? The mere fact that the American people are, as a race, inclined to freedom and would be likely to rebel against their masters, is the only reason the author of the above extract gives for not advocating the immediate enslavement of the "poor white trash" of the American people by the "superior race," the descendants of the piratical William the Norman, the "F. F. V.s," et id omne genus, the "natural aristocracy of America." Such sentiments as these, thus openly avowed, would put to blush the despots of Russia, who, even in their semi-barbarism, have discovered that the Almighty created man "in His own image, and made him a little lower than the angels." The serfs of Russia, although the possessors of a white skin, have for centuries groaned under a servitude no less degrading than that which the slave of the South has long endured. It seems that the white race has been subjected to involuntary servitude and successfully. The Algerines for several years rejoiced in the possession of able bodied white slaves, citizens of the United States—deeming their color no particular objection to their making good slaves, and further believing in the doctrine of the Cincinnati Enquirer, that "there is no principle which protects white men from slavery," and the facts were, they were successfully employed all the while, prisoners in their service. This, according to the Copperhead Democratic Enquirer, was all very right, and the despots of Russia were wanting in good judgment in liberating a race of white men who had been successfully enslaved. Civilization must be going backwards, when we consider that principles are now advocated which the most ancient Common Law writers declared to be inconsistent with the laws of Nature. It plainly appears from their outspoken organs, that the only matter which affects the Secessionists of the South and the Copperheads of the North is an overwhelming anxiety to rule as masters and not as servants of the people after the true democratic style. Their hatred of the "ignorant Dutch" and other foreign born citizens, is only equalled by their contempt for the mudsills of society, who only protect themselves from involuntary servitude to the "superior race" in the fact that they are disposed to kick against tyranny.

The meanest creature that crawls the earth is supposed to have been designed by the Creator for some wise purpose, but what wise purpose these despicable would be aristocrats and slave masters are designed to serve, baffles the comprehension of the wisest. And yet there are Americans who will crawl in the dust and lick the feet of their masters! Oh ye Copperheads, who work for those who despise you, has shame entirely forsaken your unmanly cheeks.—Red Bluff Independent.

THE FUN OF THE DRAFT.—Brandegee, the Connecticut member of Congress who was "drafted," furnished a substitute, whom he took from New London to Norwich, where he was accepted. After his acceptance the principal handed his representative a dollar, with directions to—"Go and drink General Grant's health, and make sure to be at the train when it should leave for New London." The time for the departure of the train arrived and no substitute was visible. The train was on the eve of leaving, when the substitute hove in sight, bearing indubitable evidence that he had seen General Grant. The conductor told him to "hurry up." "Never you mind," replied the substitute, "You will have to wait for me. I want you to understand that I am a member of Congress."

THE "YOUNG IDEA."—"What," asked the schoolmaster, "is the term applied to the crime of possessing two wives at one time?"

"Bigamy," replied the scholar.

"And if there be more than two, what should you call it?"

The scholar reflected a moment, then chancing to cast his eyes upon a map of Utah that decorated the wall, he smiled and confidently answered, "Brigham, sir."

The schoolmaster went abroad at the earliest opportunity.

An enthusiastic believer was relating to a sceptic certain spiritual performances to which he could testify, and, among other things, he said that on one occasion, the spirit of his wife, who had been dead several years, returned to him, and, seating herself upon his knee, put her arms around him, and kissed him much to his gratification, as she used to do when living. "You do not mean to say," remarked the sceptic, "that the spirit of your wife really embraced you, and kissed you?" "No, not exactly that," replied the believer, "but her spirit took possession of the female medium—the future Mrs. B—— that is to be, you know—and through her embraced and kissed me."

AN ACT for the relief of persons for damages sustained by reason of depredations and injuries by certain bands of Sioux Indians.

WHEREAS the United States [illegible] heretofore become bound by treaty stipulations with the Sisseton, Wahpeton, Medawakanton, and Wahpakoota bands of the Dakota or Sioux Indians to pay sums of money and annuities, the greater [illegible] of which remain unpaid, according to the terms of said treaty stipulations; and whereas during the past year the aforesaid bands of Indians made an unprovoked, aggressive, and most savage war upon the United States, and massacred a large number of men, women and children within the State of Minnesota, and destroyed and damaged a large amount of property, and thereby have forfeited all just claim to the said moneys and annuities to the United States; and whereas it is just and equitable that the persons whose property has been destroyed or damaged by the said Indians, or destroyed or damaged by the troops of the United States in said war, should be indemnified in whole or in part out of the indemnities and annuities forfeited as aforesaid: Therefore—

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all treaties heretofore made and entered into by the Sisseton, Wahpeton, Medawakanton and Wahpakoota bands of Sioux or Dakota Indians, or any of them, with the United States, are hereby declared to be abrogated and annulled, so far as said treaties or any of them purport to impose any future obligation on the United States, and all lands and rights of occupancy within the State of Minnesota, and all annuities and claims heretofore accorded to said Indians, or any of them, to be forfeited to the United States.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That, for the purpose of making the proper distribution of the moneys hereby appropriated for the present relief of such families, and for the purpose of ascertaining the whole amount of said damages to the persons who have suffered the same, it shall be lawful for the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint three commissioners, not more than one of whom shall be a resident of Minnesota, who shall take an oath, in the manner prescribed by the laws of the United States, faithfully discharge their duties; they shall entertain and hear the complaints (in writing, duly verified on oath) of all and every person aggrieved by the depredations of said Indians and by the troops of the United States in said war. They shall have power to compel the claimants to be examined and cross-examined on oath, to be administered by them, as to their said claims; they shall hold their sessions at such time and places as will give the persons complaining the fullest opportunity of verifying their claims with the least expense. They shall take care that no unjust or fictitious claim shall be established; and if they have any reason to suppose that any such claim is presented, they shall have power, and it shall be their duty, to procure any countervailing proof to their knowledge that the same may be finally rejected. A majority of the commission may select their presiding officer, and shall be competent to decide all questions arising before them.
